PRESIDENT RESTS AND IMPROVES

Good Part of Night—Physicians Believe Worst of Illness Is Past—May Start for Washington One Week Hence.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—The medical bulletin issued at 10:12 this morning on President Harding's condition follows:

9:30 a. m.—The president is comfortably sleeping. His breathing is less labored and there is but little cough. The lung condition is about the same as yesterday. He is still exhausted, but maintains his normal buoyancy of spirit. Small amounts of food are being taken regularly and there is regular and satisfactory elimination. The temperature is 99 degrees; pulse 114; respiration 30. While progress is being made, every care is necessary to assure freedom from further complications.

"C. M. COOPER, M. D."
"J. T. BOONE, M. D."
"HUBERT WORK, M. D."

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—President Harding had a restful night, obtaining an appreciable amount of refreshing sleep, and continuing to show improvement this morning, it was announced by Dr. Sawyer, his chief physician, at 8 o'clock, Pacific time.

The optimism that has been so apparent since yesterday and the confidence upon the part of the physicians that the worst of his illness was passed, this morning, and the belief prevailed that tonight will see the president considerably progressed on his road to recovery.

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—President Harding is well started on the road to recovery today.

His physicians are frankly anticipating a slow but steady improvement from day to day. Whatever doubts they may have had about his ability to pull safely through the complication of diseases has been dispelled.

Barring any unforeseen and at this time wholly unexpected setbacks, the recovery of the president is now assured, according to the physicians.

"Everything indicates he is past the crisis," said Dr. Charles E. Sawyer, chief of the attending medical staff.

The steady gains that have been recorded in the history of the case have been more pleasing to the medical men than rapid improvement. The steadiness of the president's recovery, they say, proves that the natural vigor of Mr. Harding and his fundamental sound constitution have begun to assert themselves in a normal way.

While the latest bulletins from the sick room have not specifically mentioned the pneumonia patches in the right lung, the appearance of which late Sunday night was the most alarming factor of his illness, it is understood that these are clearing up, and most of the fears the doctors felt on this score have been dispelled.

The oxygen tanks which were placed in the president's sick room for emergency use are still there today, but it is extremely unlikely, it was said today, that there will be any need for them.

The poisons, too, which were deposited in the body by the attack of pneumonia and which the president's weakened condition failed to throw off readily, are now passing. Every bulletin from the sick room since early yesterday has reported the improvement in eliminating these disturbing elements.

The chief task of the physicians now is to guard against any setbacks, any loss of the ground gained since Monday night. They appear to be entirely confident of their ability to do this. There will be no relaxation of vigilance, however, for the days yet.

It was significant of the president's great improvement today that members of his party began speculation as to when it would be possible for the chief executive to return to Washington.

The doctors themselves, with that caution which governs their every action and utterance concerning the president's case, would forecast no date. This feature, they said, is relatively unimportant. There is reason to believe, however, that if things continue well, and the president continues to make the gains at which he is working, he will be ready to start the long railroad journey back to the capital.

It is not improbable that this journey, when begun, will be made by easy stages. It has been suggested that to break the journey, the special train forego traveling at night, thus affording the president every chance for the restful nights of which he stands so greatly in need in his present weakened condition.

There is no expectation that the special transport Henderson will be used on the return trip, even though the vessel is standing by in San Francisco for orders. Dr. Sawyer has been consistently opposed to the special trip even before the president's breakdown, and his will be the determining voice in all plans for Mr. Harding's return.

The weather reports from Washington will be taken into account in planning for the return trip. Much of the credit for the president's steady improvement is accorded to the

WEALTH OF MUSIC AT EXPOSITION SEPT. 1.

Sixty-piece Band To Be Brought There by Rotary.

Kingston Rotarians at their luncheon at noon today decided to forgo the pleasure of dancing to the music of a 60-piece band on Saturday, September 1, and combine the concert to be given on that date by the Knickerbocker Band with the Kingston Industrial Exposition on the Fair Grounds. The date of the concert will be the closing day of the Exposition and this band will give concerts afternoon and evening. On account of the added attraction, admission to the Exposition on this day only will be 50 cents and Rotarians will boost the advance sale of tickets. Any profit received by the Rotary Club will go to the fund for boys' work and care of crippled children.

VIGDEN AGREES TO SELL HIS HALF

An agreement was reached Tuesday afternoon in the matter of the partition action brought by Abram Banks against Louis Vigden and others in regard to sale of the Kingston Hotel property on Crown street. Mr. Vigden has agreed to sell his undivided one-half interest in the property to Mr. Banks who will continue management of the hotel. The transfer will be consummated on Tuesday next.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN INVITED

To Meeting at Court House August 8 to Learn of Political Situation—Leading Women Speakers to Make Addresses.

The Republican women voters will hold a meeting on Wednesday, August 8, at 2 p. m., daylight saving time at the court house, Kingston. Women prominent in Republican affairs will address the meeting. Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Miss Samuel J. Bens, founder of the Women's Civic Club of Utica and prominent Republican worker in Oneida county; Miss Jennie Van Ness, Republican member of the assembly of New Jersey; Mrs. Gordon Norrie, regional director of the Women's League of Voters, and Mrs. Edward Young will be the speakers of the occasion.

Preceding this meeting a luncheon will be given in honor of the distinguished visitors to which will also be invited the women members of the Republican committee of Ulster county and others prominent in the party, that they may have an opportunity of becoming better acquainted and discuss the political situation, with a view to forming an organization in line with other Republican women in the state.

President Harding has set the pace, by requesting the Republican National committee to appoint a woman from their state to organize the women in each state that they may take their part in building up good citizenship, which assumes its civic duties as a solemn obligation which will be only discharged by knowing the political situation and thus be enabled to cast their ballot with intelligence.

The Republican women of New York state have been successfully led for five years by Mrs. Arthur Livermore who has just resigned much to the regret of her followers, who, however, are glad to know that her successor, Mrs. Charles Smith, is well fitted to fill this position of heavy responsibility.

Ulster county women have been slow to join in the procession but it is felt that the time is ripe to fall in line and help do what the women suffragists claimed they would do, put their ideas into political life. Every Republican woman voter is urged to attend this meeting.

BOY PLAYING WITH MATCHES CALLED OUT FIRE DEPARTMENT

Tuesday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock the six year old son of W. S. Downey, residing in the house of Jerome Williams at 635 Delaware avenue, secured some matches and going down cellar set fire to some boxes. Then coming upstairs he told his mother there was a fire in the cellar. An alarm was turned in from box 52. The fire department quickly extinguished the fire. The only damage was by smoke.

This morning the fire department was called out on a still alarm for some burning railroad ties in the rear of the U. & D. freight house on Cornell street.

Democratic Caucuses.

The Democrats will hold their caucus for election of delegates from the Second district of the Tenth ward Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock at the vacant store of Rufus Schoonmaker, 59 Liberty street.

cool, invigorating weather that has prevailed in San Francisco since Sunday. Consequently there will be no rushing the president back to heat in the capital, despite the earnest desire of the doctors and Mr. Harding to have Mr. Harding "home" as soon as is safely possible.

TO SELL DIEZE DEVELOPMENT LOTS

At Foreclosure Sale to Satisfy Claim of Kingston Lumber Corporation—Property Bought by John Dieze—From Dieze May Go Under Hammer.

Pursuant to a judgment of foreclosure and sale, issued out of supreme court on June 23, and duly entered in the office of the county clerk on June 26, Judge James Jenkins, as referee, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder on the 18th day of September, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of the court house, certain parcels of land located in the town of Hurley on the south shore of the Ashokan Reservoir in the tract of land which was developed by Bruno Dieze. The action is entitled Kingston Lumber Corporation, plaintiffs, Bruno Dieze and Erna Dieze, his wife, John Dieze, Bruno Dieze Company, Inc., and John Freer, defendants.

Included in the sale are several lots mentioned and described on a map entitled "Map of part of the property of Bruno Dieze, town of Hurley, on South Boulevard of the Ashokan Reservoir, being same as conveyed to him by William J. Young, book of deeds No. 487, page 550." The map is filed in the office of the county clerk.

In offering the property for sale, Judge James Jenkins, as referee, will first offer it for sale exclusive of the premises described in a deed from Bruno Dieze and wife to John Dieze, dated July 5, 1922. If the premises exclusive of the premises so sold by Dieze to Dieze shall bring a sufficient sum to pay the amount of the judgment and costs, then the property conveyed by Dieze to Dieze will not be offered for sale. Should the property not bring a sufficient sum to pay the amount of the judgment and costs, exclusive of the property sold by Dieze to Dieze, then this property will also be offered for sale.

The sale of this portion of the Dieze estate to satisfy the claim of the Kingston Lumber Corporation reveals one of the most rapid and spectacular developments of real estate in Ulster county.

Bruno Dieze first came to Kingston and in a small way entered the real estate business and a number of properties in the neighborhood of Stony Hollow were purchased by him and improved to a certain extent and then sold. His transactions in the vicinity were rapid and many of the properties which had been of little value since were improved by him and sold for a profit. After standing idle for years and after a remarkably short space of time Mr. Dieze expanded his operations rapidly and within a very short space of time had brought numerous new families into the vicinity. He purchased the hotel property on the south shore of the Ashokan Reservoir and also known as the Idle Hour Inn and acquired a large tract of brush and timber land just beyond the intersection of the road which runs over the Stony Hollow dyke and the south shore of the Ashokan Reservoir. Here he erected a number of frame houses and began development on a large scale. Numerous houses were erected and sold.

In addition to his real estate development he also organized the Kingston Lumber Corporation which was incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing soda water and soft drinks. For this business he erected a large frame building on his property and then endeavored to sell stock in the enterprise. Several local people were approached. The soda water factory, which was not erected overtopped, collapsed under the heavy snows of the past winter and is now a wreck.

After developing a large portion of the property and selling a number of the houses which he had erected Mr. Dieze left the place and at present his whereabouts are unknown, although it is said he is in Florida, operating in real estate. Attorneys for the Kingston Lumber Corporation were unsuccessful in locating him when they desired to serve papers upon him in their action.

In his building operations Mr. Dieze purchased material from the Kingston Lumber Corporation and they in turn secured themselves by mortgages the land owned by Mr. Dieze. One of these mortgages covers the land sold by Dieze to Mr. Dieze. All land sold by Dieze to Mr. Dieze are understood to have clear title.

During his operations here Mr. Dieze advertised quite extensively in German newspapers and apparently through this method disposed of a number of his houses. The soda water plant was also an attraction as some of the people probably expected employment in the plant after purchasing property and moving there.

Besides the property located on the south shore of the Ashokan Reservoir Mr. Dieze and Stephen Fisher purchased of Samuel W. Gray a large tract of land on Jockey Hill which Mr. Dieze planned to develop and sell off as bungalow sites. This property was never exploited and the bungalow colony never materialized. Action is now being taken to foreclose a mortgage on this property.

John W. Eckert, attorney for the Kingston Lumber Corporation, as well as other persons, has been unable to locate Mr. Dieze since he left the vicinity of West Hurley. Van Etten & Cook represent Mr. Dieze in the present proceeding.

Modena Clambake.

Modena M. E. Church will hold its clambake Thursday evening, September 6.

City Water Is Found Perfect

When the state health department at Albany received word of four cases of typhoid fever in Kingston, a request was made that the city's water supply be tested.

Superintendent Harrison, of the water shed, came to Kingston on July 28 and took samples of the water from the taps at the city hall and down town at the Connelly Drug Company store.

These samples have been tested and developed the fact that Kingston's water supply is absolutely pure by the time it reaches the consumer.

The test of the water from the city hall showed only four bacteria per cubic centimeter and in testing for B. Coll no gas formation was found in the five tubes tested. The test of the samples taken downtown showed but five bacteria per cubic centimeter and no B. Coll in the five tubes tested.

Superintendent Harrison stated this morning that he was greatly pleased with the result of the tests, and that the state health department would be forwarded the result. The tests showed that Kingston has the right to feel proud of its drinking water.

DISCH BUYS FINE BROADWAY PLOT

Another important real estate transfer of Broadway property was closed Tuesday afternoon by the sale by Edward T. McGill of the parcels of land with buildings thereon at the corner of Broadway and Cornell street. The property has a frontage of over 73 feet on Broadway and 138 feet on Cornell street. Frank Disch, who resides at 193 Smith avenue, is a member of the firm of Disch & Birmingham, manufacturers of concrete building blocks, at 155 Plumbush avenue, and has for over eight years conducted a saloon, and later a store for the sale of beverages, at 356 Broadway, is the purchaser.

The Jackson lunch room is situated upon the corner lot, while adjoining is a two-story and basement brick residence building, the basement being occupied by a shoe repair shop. Next door, to the south, is a one-story frame building in which there are two stores. Mr. Disch plans to erect a building on the lot where the lunch room now stands. On Cornell street front are a number of lots.

Being within two blocks of the West Shore Railroad, and diagonally opposite Cedar street with the two trolley lines running in front of the property the location is considered one of the best in the city.

The Shultz car was hit on the side, the fender bent and went over the curb on the sidewalk and ran into the porch in front of the residence of Postmaster W. C. Dewitt. One column was knocked loose from the porch platform at the bottom and the platform pushed to an angle. A policeman who was at the call near the corner using the phone at the time of the accident had a close call from being hit by the Shultz car. Mr. Dewitt was assured that the damages to his porch would be settled.

"POWERFUL BAD STUFF IS HOOCH"

"Yes sir, that stuff they sell now—days must be pizen," remarked George W. Ross, 11 years old, a negro, picked up on lower Hasbrouck avenue this morning by Officer Reardon on a technical charge of vagrancy. When Ross was arraigned later in police court before Judge Schirrick he nearly fainted, not from fright, but from the effects of what he had been drinking. "Powerful bad stuff, that there hooch," he observed weakly. Judge Schirrick realized that Ross was in bad shape physically and for the man's benefit committed him to the county jail for five days and notified Dr. Buckley, the jail physician, that Ross was in need of medical attention.

NORTH JERSEY WALKS TO WORK

Or Uses Other Means Than Trolley Cars Which Are All Tied Up By Strike—6,300 Men Out Demanding 30 Per Cent Increase—Looks Like Long Fight.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 1.—Two million workers in 145 New Jersey municipalities walked to work this morning.

The strike of the 6,300 motormen, conductors and shopmen employed by the Public Service Railway Company went into effect at midnight. The strikers demand a 30 per cent wage increase.

Not a wheel turned on the trolley company's entire system. Thomas McGarrett, president of the corporation, told International News Service this morning.

City officials in Jersey City, Newark, Camden, New Brunswick, Paterson, Elizabeth, Holoken, Dunellen, East Orange and scores of smaller communities took command of the situation in their localities. They put automobiles, motor trucks, busses and even wagons into service in an effort to relieve the situation.

The district affected employees are approximately 1,500,000 workers in 5,000 manufacturing plants, including the central electrical plants of many of the nation's greatest industries. Another 500,000 workers use the trolley's daily commuting to New York.

The opening of the strike was without disorder. P. J. O'Brien, national organizer of the street car men's union, in charge of the strike, announced the vote takes yesterday stood 20 to 1 for the strike.

In last minute effort to stop the walkout President McGarrett called O'Brien before him, offering a five cent an hour increase. This O'Brien refused but later made a counter proposition for a 16 cent increase.

"The company cannot pay such an increase," McGarrett said in an official statement, issued just before midnight. "Such an increase would mean $2,500,000 a year—we haven't got the money."

Informed of this statement the men were obstinate. They left their cars in the barns at midnight, announcing they would not return "until the strike had been won."

The New Jersey state board of public utilities came to the aid of citizens with an immediate announcement that motor car owners might operate their machines as busses without the payment of the usual state license. A five cent fare for all such rides was fixed.

Grover A. Whalen, commissioner of street and structures in New York and Jersey City this morning, putting them in charge of Mayor Hendenbach of Newark.

That the tie-up will continue over a long period was the prediction at both the office of the street car company and the union. As such a car company men began the removal of cars from the streets, indicating the trolley transportation would have no effort to resume service with strike-breaking cars.

All police forces have been called in the 145 cities affected. A mass meeting of all strikers was called for today.

DR. NORWOOD RETURNS FROM ALABAMA TRIP

Dr. E. H. Norwood of the board of health, who has been on a trip of several weeks on an auto trip to Alabama and the Florida coast, returned home Tuesday evening, and was escorted by his physician, Dr. Norwood reports a most enjoyable trip.

Shuler Re-constituted.

Trooper J. R. Shuler, who has completed two years with the New York state troopers, has been re-constituted for a period of two years.

Anna Krauss, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Krauss of No. 34 Murray street, was knocked down today by an automobile driven by Henry McDowell, a negro residing at No. 41 Chambers street, and died on the way to the Kingston City Hospital. The child's head had been crushed in by the weight of the heavy touring car. At the hospital McDowell was placed under arrest by Sergeant Hanley, and is being held pending a hearing. Coroner W. Norman Connor was notified and took charge of the body of the child.

The tragedy occurred near the foot of the Chambers street hill, and the front wheel of the big Jordan touring car driven by McDowell passed over the child's head. McDowell stopped the car as quickly as possible and picking up the girl hurried her to the hospital but she died on the way.

At police headquarters McDowell made a statement to Chief of Police Wood, who took charge of the examination of the witnesses. McDowell said that he was driving down Chambers street hill, and had passed the school and at the foot of the hill saw the child in the road playing. "I was driving in second," said McDowell, "and the front wheel hit her. I had my foot on the brake when I first saw the child. She was on the right hand side of the street near the school. She turned and ran to the left right in front of the right wheel of my car. When she ran in front of my car, I tried to dodge her. Everybody yelled out to her to look out. I think the right front wheel hit her. I stopped the car so that the left hand wheel was about two feet from the girl. I got out and picked her up and took her to the Kingston City Hospital where she died a few minutes later."

McDowell further stated that he did not know the child and that his car was a Jordan seven passenger touring car. He claims that he was running down the hill about 15 miles an hour.

Estimates of the speed given by other eye witnesses of the tragedy vary, some saying the car was going over 15 miles an hour.

In the car with McDowell were William Watts, Rose Brothers' brickyard.

Lillian Boyd, Rose Brothers' brickyard.

Nellie Carey, 55 Newkirk avenue.

Josephine Jackson, 53 Newkirk avenue.

Henry Young, Lynch's brickyard. Mr. Krauss, father of the dead child, is working at Hunter and has been notified of the death of his daughter. Mrs. Krauss, the mother, was in a hysterical condition this afternoon. There are three other children, two of them twins, born two weeks ago.

WOODSTOCK BUS LINE DEVELOPMENT

Chamberlain Reports Town Board Meeting Without Newspaper Notice Was Legal—Petition Circulating to Cancel Longyear's and Schoonmaker's Permits.

Notice has been received from Harry Myron Chamberlain who represented the state public service commission at the hearing in the matter of the petition of Stanley Longyear for a permit to run an auto bus line between Bearsville, Woodstock and Kingston, that it was not illegal to hold a special meeting of the town board of Woodstock without advertising the meeting in a newspaper. At the hearing held at the court house, Thursday, July 26, Mr. Chamberlain stated that he doubted the sufficiency of the notice for the meeting at which the town board granted a permit to Longyear to operate the bus line in Woodstock, because it was not advertised, but allowed the hearing to proceed, saying he would reserve decision on the point. He has, as before stated, notified the attorneys in the matter that the position of five notices as had been sufficient and that answering the time of meeting, etc. in a newspaper was not necessary.

A new turn has been taken in the bus line matter in that petitions are being circulated in the town of Woodstock calling for the town board to hold a special meeting on August 8, at which action is requested to be taken cancel the permits granted to Stanley Longyear and also to Clyde Schoonmaker by said board.

TELLER LEARNS A COSTLY LESSON

The other day a bank teller in a country town was summoned by telephone to go down to the railroad station and deliver four hundred dollars in bills to a depositor who was passing through but who did not have time to stop off and come up to the bank.

The teller was hounded of course, in one of those modern inclusive ways that guarantee the bank against loss not only by embezzlement but also through carelessness. If he had lived in his grandfather's time he would have been vouched for only by the personal suretyship of a trusting relative of substance, and the only recourse in case he made away with funds would have been his uncle's shifting estate and the possibility that the local thief-taker society on horseback might catch up with him. (This long sentence is not an aside. It contains the point of the story, which is that he was inclusively hounded.)

As the young man approached the station he had stowed away three of the bundles containing the bills in various pockets, but he held one in his hand. In the country the young ladies always turn out when the trains come in, supposedly to compare the specimens of the male sex who pass through the town with the somewhat limited local supply. The teller was probably aware of this fact, and so, probably to enhance his own importance (as a responsible citizen) in their eyes, he gaily tossed a bundle containing one hundred dollars in bills into the air. Again and again he caught it, and the third time he did not catch it, and the package fell to the platform. A passing hog, of the variety called razorback, because they are usually seen stripping themselves against the platform, was rambling by at the moment. He saw the package, whose green suggested nourishment, and naturally swallowed it.

The agonized teller hastily hunted up the owner of the animal and made a hurried bargain for its purchase. He slew the animal where he was and cut him open. But in the meantime nature had done her work, and the bundle was unrecognizable as money. The surety company was bound to pay the bank's claim. They probably recovered from the teller, who had learned the lesson suggested by the title of this story. As a curator of funds he also decided not to qualify further as a teller.

HISTORIC CAPE TOWN RELIC

Stump of Old "Slave Tree" Is All That Remains as Reminder of Days of Slavery.
There is an old tree in Cape Town, in Church square, over 250 years old, and all that remains of it today is the stump, to which is affixed a brass plate and an inscription, giving an outline of its history. It is a most historic landmark, as it was there before the days of Jan van Riebeck. To this tree slaves were brought and placed on tables for exhibition and sale.
The slaves were kept in the old Supreme court building, just opposite the old tree, and it is not difficult still to picture the once familiar scene.
Slavery was abolished in 1838, but the old slave tree stood and braved the storms till November 9, 1918, when it was cut down, as it was considered unsafe. The brass plate was affixed by the owner of a store which, until the tree was cut down, had always been advertised as "under the old tree."

Sports Outfits in Variegated Shades

Costume Appropriate for Different Hours of Lady's Day.

The reign of the frilly, lacy blouse of dress as the summer girl's favorite is over, declares a fashion writer in the New York Times. Near to her heart now are her sports clothes. For she finds that in the summer she can be comfortable and trim without losing a particle of the feminine allure that is really the only thing the organdie or lace gown can do for her. She can slip into a skirt and blouse for a hike before breakfast, and appear at all the functions of an average day in the same costume, and the fluffy gown with its small details of endurance necessitates many changes. It is significant to note that as smart as the frocks and blouses. The new sports frocks are notable this season. They are generally of a good quality of crepe or satin silk, and are tailored much as the shirtwaists of old were, but they are finished at the lower edge with a wide band, which fits down over the skirt, well onto the hips. This is a feature which will appeal in every woman who knows the annoyance of blouses that refuse to stay tucked into the top of the skirt. These skirts are primarily designed for golf or tennis and are worn over a plaited or wrap-around skirt and a sleeveless sweater.

Sweaters on Coat Lines. The new sweaters, often sleeveless this season, are cut on coat lines. A novel note just introduced is the combination of a plain back with a checked front. This idea is carried out also, using a Batik or tie-dyed effect for the front with a plain, harmonizing back. Reports from the smart country clubs indicate that the neutral or at least the less vivid colors prevail. Beige, gray, and blue are more popular than the loud blazer effects of last year.

Pages could be written about the charm of the one-piece frocks which fall under the heading of sports clothes. They are preferably knitted in a variety of weaves, weights and materials. Silk, wool, silk and wool are all equally smart. Often they are figured or patterned to adhere to the tremendous vogue for printed stuffs. They are straight chemise frocks after the Chanel models, but they are very apt to have plaits on one hip or both; indeed, by their plaits you know this year's chemise frock from last. Next in favor are the crepes. Crepe de chine, canton and satin are used extensively for simple frocks, often trimmed only with hemstitching and an embroidered monogram. There are also some very good looking cottons on the market, woven heavily in two harmonious colors—gray and orange or blue and green—so that the result is a charming changeable effect, and the texture simulates the more expensive knitted materials.

Those dresses with plaits over one hip only accentuate the cleverness of the simple line. They give room aplenty for walking and moving about in any way that sports or every-day wear demands, and they preserve that untrammelled effect which is so much the secret of the dress. One of them is made of that heavy silk knitted fabric in black and white that incorporates a brocade design in the weaving, with a resulting fabric that is heavy enough to maintain straightness of line and flatness of appearance without the slightest interruption.

Short Coats Are Chic. The short coats are certainly the sensation of the summer, and the more perfected they become the more sportsmanlike and beautiful they seem. They are made of every known material from velvet to cotton, and all the variations of weaves and patterns that come in between. They have come a long way from those jackets that are fastened closely over the hips, and now they are loose and straight, with lines that are growing rather more flaring under the arms. Their sleeves are kept wide at the wrists, and many of them are made three-quarter length. They are nice, indeed, when they are worn with plaited skirts, although with one-piece dresses they look extremely well. At a smart country club the other day there was a costume that consisted of a plaited white crepe silk skirt and a white silk blouse made on comfort and the minimum of effect required in upkeep are the factors which appeal to the modern girl. Yet it is very doubtful whether her grandmother, heavily boned and dragging incredible lengths of beaded skirts about with her, created half as picturesque an appeal to the eye. The universal acclamation of sports clothes as the smartest things for summer wear has been an incentive for the foremost designers to create this season an infinite variety of intriguing models. They are divided roughly into two classifications—for the active and the inactive sportswoman. Under the first we find the severely simple, English type of thing, cut correctly for the sport at which one wears it. Conventional riding habits, polo costumes, intricate ensembles for climbing and fishing, all are necessities for the active woman. But they admit of little imagination in the planning. They must be purchased at a smart shop, where the correct thing is sure to be had. Costumes for golf or tennis may, of course, be varied, possess individuality and still be very smart. For the so-called inactive sportswoman (and this includes practically everyone on some occasions) there is everything from the beanie sweater and skirt to fascinating costumes of embroidered or printed silk and knitted frocks with long wraps to match, trimmed with fur. With such a lavish assortment awaiting her selection, every woman may have proper and charming clothes for every occasion this summer. And to be properly and charmingly groomed is to be at peace with the world.

Demand for Plaiting. The foundation of a great many of this season's sports frocks is a plaited skirt. This may be crepe, georgette, satin, or alpaca, twill or light woolen. Knife or accordion or box plaiting—any possible arrangement of plaits—is chic. Just to achieve that graceful, straight, yet flowing silhouette that only a plaited skirt can achieve is the thing to strive for. And they are worn quite short, these youthful skirts, so that hose and smart footwear must receive due attention.

The blouses, jaquettes, sweaters and short coats worn atop the skirts are to be found in the shops in a profusion of charming designs, yet the smartest ones are so simple that the clever needlewoman will find it easy to make them herself. The possibilities for numerous changes with one or two skirts as a basis are limitless. For example, one woman's sports wardrobe was built around a heavy, gray crepe, knife-plaited skirt. A hip-length jaquette blouse or printed crepe in a beautiful design of crimson, blue and gray, worn with a gray felt cloche, was one winning costume. Over this very often was worn a short box coat of a loosely woven summer woolen material. This completed what might almost be called a "costume" sports suit. A lovely lemon yellow slip-on sweater and a darker gray, checked, sleeveless coat, sweater formed still other variations with the same plaited skirt. The woman with imagination can have more variety in her wardrobe at less expense this season than ever before, because these combination costumes are every plain lines and fastening over the hips. Then there was worn with this dress a coat of the darkest of blue velvet, lined with white crepe. The coat was extremely short and flaring and was left open at the front, so that the deep blue against the white created the bluest sort of an effect.

You will find the girls in outdoor clothes wearing little woolly jackets. The handsomest of them are of brushed, wool, hand-knitted in loose stitches. But then there are others, made from woolly cloths, and they are cut on the loose square lines, bound with silk braids or ribbons. One of them particularly was made from one of these materials in camel's hair coloring and was bound with a deep henna shade of grosgrain ribbon.

240 DELINQUENT DOG OWNERS HERE

The 240 delinquent dog owners will be turned over to City Marshal Arthur Rice and notified to appear in city court to explain their neglect in obtaining a license for their pets.

This, it was thought, will be the final meeting of the commission.

A FEW "KIND WORDS" FOR MR. MURPHY AND CANDIDATE.

The Freeman Receives Following Letter From a Democrat.

The Freeman is in receipt of the following communication from a member of the Democratic party, which speaks for itself:

Kingston, July 31, 1923.

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly give space to the following:

James J. Murphy, erstwhile chairman of the Democratic city committee, called a meeting for July 23 which he was pleased to describe as a representative gathering of Democrats. He had no authority to call that meeting. He personally and carefully sounded them as to their attitude toward the candidacy of a former mayor of this city for the mayoralty nomination this year, and if they were favorable to his candidate they immediately became representative. The Democratic party in the city of Kingston has indeed become decadent when they acquiesce in such brazen effrontery. When they are allowed to freely and openly register their preference for a mayoralty candidate they will, I am sure, rebuke the aspirations of a man who has on at least three occasions "ran out" on the regular Democratic nominee and is not a Democrat according to any standard of regularity. The Democrats have a wealth of material from which to make a selection when the time comes to nominate a candidate for mayor and will probably rebuke this ruthless attempt to "put over" a renegade Democrat by the strong arm in that employed by Mr. Murphy, himself a former Republican.

Yours for FAIRNESS.

It is known that at least one campaigner helped to elect Magnus Johnson by promising that he would never wear a dress suit in Washington, but no promises that he would forever rat with a knife have been so far reported.

"Better take a rest and forget your work, for the world can jog along just as well without you," says the physician to the tired business man, who smiles and sighs and says to himself: "The world can get along without me, but with their innumerable needs my wife and children can not."

If Governor Smith should call a special session of the Legislature for any time in August many of the legislators would not have to travel any further than from Saratoga to Albany, a distance of about thirty miles. They were all invited to Saratoga for August during the race meetings.

THE BOIS-DE-BELLEAU.

Belleau wood, a forest tangle of giant boulders and mangled trees about a mile square, is now a sort of American island in the midst of the plains of France. For on July 22, anniversary of a great event, the American flag went up over the wood and the French colors came down at Marshal Foch's command in the presence of eminent French and American soldiers and statesmen. The Bois-de-Belleau—"this sacred and shell-shot ground"—has been made a permanent memorial of a great achievement by the American marines.

The Germans possessed Belleau wood and held it with machine guns and trench mortars against all comers. It was regarded as impregnable and to attack it was considered futile as well as suicidal. But the Marines attacked it, and after twenty-three days of desperate fighting in both Indian and American style, they drove the remnant of the entrenched Germans out. It cost the Marines 113 officers and 5,598 men killed, wounded and missing, but they did it—with profound psychological effect as well as advantageous material results. Speaking of the achievement as the turning point of the war, Marshal Foch said with tears, "The men who died here are safe; they will be guarded by us religiously."

AFTER THAT, THE ZOO.

Mayor Hyman had the time of his life the other day when members of the National Editorial Association called on him, which gave him opportunity to score the newspapers of New York city and charge them with being everything that is bad. That there was no rule of ethics obeyed any more, and that all newspapers were controlled by the moneyed interests, were his chief accusations. He told the editors, not being an editor himself, how they should edit their newspapers and how they could become respected citizens. In enumerating the bad papers he did not, however, mention some publications, which proves to the unknowing that his measure of discrimination is accurate.

Nevertheless, he scolded the newspapers, scolded them to his heart's content, after which, as one of the reporters on the New York Herald said, "the editors then went to the Zoo." Why they selected the Zoo as their next place of entertainment was not stated, but the reporter who wrote that classic phrase, "the editors then went to the Zoo," surely deserves an increase in salary. Whether the mayor when he saw the paper the next morning got the full purport of that climax to the editors' visit to the City Hall is doubtful, but it is reasonable to suppose that some of his assistants would act as an interpreter.

Ordinarily the mayor might have made a bit of capital out of his harangue had he been talking to men of equal newspaper ability to that of the mayor himself, but he wasn't. He talked to newspaper men, real newspaper men, who have heard the complaints of politicians all their lives and know how much stock to put in such grievances. It is practically certain that the deduction of every editor was that the mayor had not been fulsomely praised for everything he did not do and should have done and, for personal reasons, was anxious to arraign the local newspapers, which is a common practice. Mayor Hyman, like many other men in public life, made a mistake when he determined to dictate to the newspapers. This has been tried, but there is yet to be reported an instance where it has worked out to the advantage of the official. The mayor and others holding this view forget that a newspaper has as much right to an opinion as a public officer, which explains, perhaps, why editors after they listen to speeches like that of Mayor Hyman feel that there is only one thing to do and that is to go to a Zoo to get a sound idea or suggestion.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. I read in the paper that some traveler who brought growing orchids from South America, was forbidden to land them. Why?

2. Do birds feed in the same general situation where they nest?

3. Is there a flying frog?

Answers In Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. What sort of spider spins the plain cobwebs like thin tissue paper, you find in dusty sheds and such places?

Made by one of the Agelenidae, Tegenaria dorsalis, very widely distributed from the frigid to the torrid zone. You can see similar webs on the grass when they are covered with dew and show up frosty.

2. Are wild animals protected in any other country than America?

Yes; most countries in Africa have game laws of some kind, and there has been some attempt to establish sanctuaries where wild beasts may not be hunted. India and Ceylon have strict game laws. Some European countries protect game chiefly through shooting restrictions enforced by owners of such tracts as have wild life on them. Italy and Spain maintain royal shooting preserves. Norway has a close season on elk. Canada has elaborate restrictions on shooting.

3. What bird is considered the finest singer?

The vote would depend on taste and locality. In North America many persons and most professional ornithologists, rank the wood thrush highest, the note being "liquid, metallic, rich, powerful and expressive," etc., not given in one long strain, but in groups and combinations of melodies, or mellow chirps. The mocking bird has a richly varied song that is greatly admired. People in Europe and Asia would naturally rank some of their singers highest.

Horticultural Facts

Spraying Farm Orchards Found Quite Profitable

The other day a well-known Iowa farmer who is a director in his county farm bureau said that in his county the farm bureau was attracting members by the organization of spray rings, and that he thought in that one county at least ten big new power sprayers would be at work next year in the farm orchards.

It was in 1910 that the first spraying demonstration was held in the county, and the enthusiasm has grown by leaps and bounds. It is not only strong in its county but in adjoining ones, says a writer in the Successful Farmer. What is the cause of this enthusiasm over spraying? One thing, it is profitable.

Just how profitable spraying may be is well demonstrated by the experience of Karl Meier, an Iowa man. His orchard was given four sprays during the season, the experiment station recommendations being closely followed. Careful record was kept of the cost. It cost thirty-five cents a tree for the material. Depreciation on the pump was about three cents, and the labor cost was forty-one cents. Note that Mr. Meier was actually paid for his labor on a day wage basis, something by the way, which ought to be done in figuring the cost of corn and pork and beef and other farm products. This makes a total cost less than eighty cents per tree.

One tree was left unsprayed, to see what it would do, and to compare it with the sprayed trees. It produced 303 pounds of apples of which only 13.5 per cent or about forty-one pounds were clean. Scabby and wormy apples comprised the balance.

Now how about the sprayed tree? An accurate record is impossible because the great American traveling public entered the orchard and appropriated to its own use a share of the apples from the test tree. Rest assured, the American public did not take any scabby or wormy apples away. Even with the loss of a part of its production the sprayed tree yielded 273 pounds of apples to their rightful owner, and of these 81.5 per cent or better than 222 pounds were clean, absolutely free from scabs and worms. In spite of the loss of some crop, the worthwhile clean fruit, fruit fit to store, from the sprayed tree was better than five times the quantity had from the unsprayed tree, all for a cost of eighty cents. Over three bushels and a half extra of sound fruit returned for the expense of spraying is not at all an extraordinary result. There has been time after time even more startling results from spraying. But note that the American public wants sprayed fruit when it has its choice, and the wormy, scabby, gnarly stuff will be left till the last. This runs true whether it is a small boy in the orchard or a housekeeper with a market basket.

Remove All Old Cane to Control Many Diseases

In the handling of bush fruits, it has not been found as practical to control diseases attacking these plants by spraying as it is for similar troubles on tree fruits. The general practice is to cut out and burn all old canes as soon as the fruit has been removed. Other diseased canes may well be taken out upon the first appearance of the ailments. It is wise to select varieties that are resistant to diseases.

Caterpillars on the leaves of raspberries and blackberries can be controlled with a spray of arsenate of lead. Use one pound of the powdered arsenate to fifty gallons of water.

Mildew, which appears as a grayish powdery fungus is controlled by an application of potassium sulphide used at the rate of one ounce of the sulphide to two or three gallons of water.

Plant lice are controlled by nicotine sulphate. This should be applied, however, before the leaves curl, since this folding of the leaves prevents the spray from reaching the lice.

Best Method to Control Strawberry Leaf Roller

If the strawberry bed is severely infested with leaf roller, the best method of control is to burn off all vegetable matter. If the bed is not heavy, straw can be spread over it to insure more thorough burning. This will kill all the rollers since they live within the rolled leaves. The burning is most effective when done during the middle of July. It is best to mow or pull the vines and allow them to dry some before attempting to burn them. If the ground is firm, the burning will not injure the strawberry plants. The new growth should be practically free of the pest.

Location of Bushes. It makes a great deal of difference where the currant or gooseberry bushes are to be located when one considers their treatment.

Top of Bushes. The tops of the gooseberry bushes or currants should be cut back so that they extend only about eight or ten inches above the soil when set.

Dust for Strawberry Weevil. Dusting with powdered sulphur is suggested for the strawberry weevil.

The New Studebaker Special-Six Touring Car

Before you buy any car, see the STUDEBAKER 1924 MODELS

Studebaker presents its complete line of 1924 models, announced a week ago, with the conviction that they will increase the prestige of the name Studebaker which, for 71 years, has stood for the best in transportation, quality and value of product.

Into these 1924 cars are built every proved feature in design that makes for the comfort, convenience and safety of passengers, and many refinements that further enhance the value of a line of cars already highly perfected.

It is common knowledge in the steel industry that Studebaker uses only the highest grades of the finest steels. And the same is true of the electrical equipment, instruments, bearings, batteries, upholstery, finishing paints, tires and accessories used in Studebaker cars.

It is equally well known that Studebaker, with $90,000,000 of actual net assets, including $45,000,000 of plant facilities, is unsurpassed in ability and resources to manufacture economically and give maximum intrinsic value for a given price.

Produced under these favorable conditions, the 1924 Studebakers are distinctly the finest cars and greatest values Studebaker ever offered.

These are not careless statements. They are facts that reflect the honesty and integrity of the manufacturer and its product just as they do the truth of Studebaker advertising.

The public has placed its confidence in Studebaker by accepting these facts, supported by the performance of Studebaker cars in owners' use. That's why Studebaker sales for the past six years have increased progressively each year and sales for the first six months of 1923 of 81,880 cars broke all six months' records.

Studebaker never cheapens quality to meet competition. The name Studebaker stands for satisfaction and service.

FIRE STATION FLOOR UNSAFE

Central Fire Station Was Built For Horse-Drawn Fire Apparatus and New Motor Equipment Is Proving Too Heavy a Load for the Floor.

The concrete floor in the Central Fire Station on East O'Reilly street is cracking under the strain of supporting the heavy motor apparatus of the fire department, and the board of fire commissioners has had an expert examine the floor and he is preparing specifications for strengthening it which will be shortly submitted to bidders.

The Central Fire Station was built in the days before motor apparatus and the floor was of sufficient strength to support the horses and apparatus of the department.

As the years have passed the fire department has become motorized and the big auto trucks have taken the place of the fire horses of the old days.

At the present time the fire department is using extreme care in placing the fire apparatus on the floor so that the weight is as evenly distributed as possible.

The work of strengthening the floor will be done as quickly as possible before an accident occurs.

GLASCO RESIDENT IN JAIL FOR OBSERVATION.

Charles Gallo of Glasco was placed in the lockup by Police Captain Richter of Saugerties Monday evening, charged with assault in the third degree upon Joseph Cimorrelli, also of Glasco. Gallo appeared to lack mental intelligence and Drs. Luther Emerick and James Krom made an examination of him, but they did not announce their conclusions. Gallo, seemingly, was bordering upon a case of fever which might develop in a few days. Tuesday morning in police court Police Justice Abel committed Gallo to the county jail for five days, where he will be under observation to determine his ailment.

HER HERITAGE

By MOLLIE MATHER

DOWN the garden came Patsy, viewing her domain. She was so small that the dignified name of Patricia seemed all too cumbersome, so those who loved her called her Patsy.

A letter had come to the humble little flat dweller in the city saying that her grandfather proposed to make her his heir, providing—

"I knew there would be a string somewhere," she remarked to Mrs. Sims, who boarded her.

"Providing," went on the letter, "that my granddaughter, Patricia, will make herself useful to me during the present period of my life, by becoming my confidential secretary. Included in this duty, the typing of various lectures, manuscripts, copying my coming books on the sciences, etc. In return, my granddaughter shall occupy the position of mistress of my home and estates now and forever."

The communication was signed formally, "Jasper Wellington."

Patsy, wandering down the garden paths, came to a sheltered side of the stone house. Then a voice came to her and she found herself gazing through the ivy-framed window into the face of the speaker. He was a young man with face all too white, and dark eyes with shadows beneath them.

"It has come at last," he told his companion, a young man who lolled in a chair near. "I've been afraid that Mr. Wellington would one day dispense with my services as secretary. I have been faithful and tireless. I was situated, as other men, did not matter, and I could seek my fortune elsewhere. But it is the problem of mother and Jean. The doctor says Jean is more dependent than ever on country air, and mother is just a part, you know, of her little home here, and the town she has known since girlhood. Jean is her care, and Jean cannot be with us long, at best. No, there is no other way for me; both are too frail to leave, while I might try and fall in work elsewhere. They need me."

"They have always needed you," the friend returned sadly, "and old Wellington, too, has exacted your service since you came from college and were forced to take the only suitable employment this hamlet afforded. Now he throws you cold, because he happens to find that he has a granddaughter who will be able to answer his requirement. Old miser! Well, if you can find a way to come to me in the city, my offer is open, friend."

The young man with the white face and burning eyes was alone. His head with its dark hair was cradled hopelessly, in his outstretched arms. Presently, as though answering some imperative call, he glanced upwards and saw as though it were a vision the face of a girl framed in flowers—a tender, haunting face, blue eyes, soft in unspoken sympathy. Then the face disappeared and Keith Kenzie rubbed his eyes wonderingly.

The library was so big and impressive that Patsy, there in her smallness, appeared more insignificant than ever.

"About that typing, grandfather," she naively informed the grim man before her, "you will have to be indulgent. I have no doubt that I could make you an acceptable secretary in time, with instruction. Do you think your present secretary could teach me? I would love to stay here with you, and I'd love, too, I'll admit, to keep this home of our people."

The old man's face wrinkled into the semblance of a smile. "It is strange," he remarked musingly. "But I should like to have you stay with me. Our few days' acquaintance has taught me that extraordinary fact. Regarding the secretarial obligation, Patricia, I understood that your work in the city was such as to—"

"It was such," Patsy answered with a disarming smile, "as to be quite different from your requirement."

"Kenzie, I have no doubt," the old man replied, "would be glad in his present unfortunate circumstances, to be retained for a time. I never allow sympathy to interfere with business. Will you try to learn rapidly, that you may fulfill your obligation?"

"I will try," Patsy promised.

She came again to the impressive library and into her grandfather's presence. It was a month or so later, and his presence was less formidable. The wrinkled smile was now a smile of welcome.

"So, granddaughter," Jasper Wellington said, "you come to tell me that your lesson is learned?"

Patsy settled herself at his side; her hand had slipped into his.

"The lesson is learned, grandfather, but it was the lesson of love, you see before me. And if I must choose between my heritage of estates—or marry Keith Kenzie—then, oh, my dear!—it must be Keith that I would choose. Don't you think that you might make room for us both in your great house, grandfather—and in your heart?—Keith, the capable secretary and his wife, your granddaughter, who would try to make you both happier—and would try to cheer, too, Keith's mother, who cares for her sick daughter in a little cottage nearby?"

"I think," said the softened old man, "that very likely I could make room for you both in my home and my heart."

And that is all of the story.

Saw a Pair.

Kilary, aged three, was taken to see his grandmother. Another visitor, grandma's sister, was there. The two sisters looked so much alike that at first the child looked puzzled; then, pointing from one to the other, said: "One grandma, two grandmas!"

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TUESDAY'S ICE CREAM

"In a children's hospital," said Daddy, "when it was very hot the matron allowed the boys and girls who could get about fairly easily to go down into the yard."

"I have told you of these hospital children before, as they are the ones I go to see when I'm in the city, and you have been told of the surprise the matron had for them one time."

"You remember how every child who was well enough was given a bathing suit and then, late in the afternoon, they went down into the hospital yard and Jerry, the wonderful janitor man, played the hose upon them and they jumped into its cooling spray. Oh, what a good time they had!"

"Sometimes, too, you know, a big table was taken down into the yard and there the children would have their supper."

"They called that a picnic! Yes, every time they had supper in the yard they said it was their picnic party."

"But every Tuesday night they had ice cream, and that was the big party of the week."

"It gave Father Week's son Tuesday much joy to think that upon his day there was such a treat."

"And one night the Dreamland King told Tuesday he would give an added treat upon his day."

"Tuesday was delighted and, of course, as it was not yet time for Wednesday to appear, Tuesday was about it."

"Wednesday would appear all right on the very second following midnight, but it was now only nine o'clock and there were three hours before Wednesday would appear."

"Tuesday was very much excited to see what would happen."

"Pretty soon he saw the Dreamland King coming into the hospital. How handsome he did look. His face was so kindly, and he walked so softly, and it seemed to Tuesday as though every child smiled as the Dreamland King walked along."

"I'll tell you what I'm doing," said the Dreamland King to Tuesday.

"Do," said Tuesday.

"I'm giving some dreams about," said the Dreamland King, "and some are about toys and some are about games and frolics and some are about the days when those who're sick now will be quite well and will be going home."

"But I'm giving a particularly nice dream to Tony. Tony is that fine boy in the bed yonder."

"And the Dreamland King pointed toward a bed in which Tuesday saw, sleeping, a very fine-looking boy."

"He looks ever so nice," said Tuesday, "and he is as nice as he looks, I know."

"For I'm about once a week, as you know, and I always find Tony the same, cheery and happy and making every one in the hospital cheery and happy, too."

"Visitors say they are awfully fond of Tony and that they admire him just ever so much."

"I don't wonder," said the Dreamland King, "Tony has always been a friend of mine."

"He doesn't know how much I like him. Well, I'm giving him my best ice cream dream."

"My best ice cream dream is a wonderful dream," said Tuesday.

"Do tell me about it," said Tuesday.

"It's a dream in which the dreamer—or the one to whom I give the dream—dreams that he is a castle made of ice cream and that they've been invited to make themselves at home in the castle and eat all the ice cream they can."

"They eat of the walls of the castle and of the towers and of the turrets, and as they eat more and more ice cream seems to come in place of that which they have already eaten."

"And they don't feel sick, even after they've eaten ever so much, which is one of the nicest things about the dream, for in waking time too much of anything is apt to make one sick."

"I will say, though, that ice cream is ever so good and doesn't go about making people sick, as too much of the cake family will do."

"But that is the dream I'm giving Tony on this evening when he has had one treat of ice cream. Two treats—a waking-time treat and a dream treat—are what I'm giving tonight—your night, Tuesday."

"And Tuesday felt highly honored."

"A Dream Treat."

SALAD DAYS

There is no dish which is more popular, or attractive when nicely combined, or garnished and served, than salad, and there are so many different kinds that all occasions may be met with an appropriate salad.

Tomato Salad.—Slice thick slices of ripe, red tomatoes; spread with a layer of seasoned cottage cheese, place another slice on top, spread with mayonnaise dressing and garnish with a ball of cheese. Place on lettuce with a spoonful of piped whiff of mayonnaise on each.

German Salad.—Chop a small head of tender cabbage with one small onion, season well with salt and cayenne. Cut in very fine dice a slice or two of salt pork, the amount depending upon the size of the cabbage used, fry until a nut brown and pour fat and most of the diced pork over the cabbage, mix well and then add a quarter of a cupful of boiling vinegar, mix and add seasoning to taste. Garnish the top of the salad with a mound of the pork dice and a fringe of parsley.

Cherries, Cheese and Cream.—Add cream to cream cheese with a few chopped blanched almonds, mold into balls the size of large cherries. Heap the cheese balls and pitted cherries in nests of lettuce and serve with mayonnaise.

Salmon Salad.—Make small cups of new cooked and pickled beets. Slice off the bottom so they will stand level and fill with finely diced cucumber and flaked salmon mixed with salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Tomato and Cucumber Salad.—Place overlapping slices of ripe tomato and cucumber on a long platter. Pass with a thick mayonnaise dressing. Tomato cups filled with chopped cucumber and a tablespoonful of onion marinated with French dressing make a pretty and tasty salad. Serve topped with a spoonful of mayonnaise.

Cottage cheese, fresh ripe chopped cherries and a bit of mayonnaise is a very nice combination for a salad which may also be used as a sandwich filling.

To Quote an Authority on the Subject

By THE VETERAN MOTORIST

W. R. RASMUSSEN, a representative of the National Safety Council, gives as one of the eight principal causes of traffic accidents "passing a street car going in the same direction on the left on a two-way street." And I recall, from my own observations, at least three smashes that occurred in just that way.

Some States absolutely forbid passing a trolley car on the left under any conditions—and it's a good thing. But even where it isn't prohibited by law, ordinary horse sense always tells me that it's a risky thing to do. And, as a result, I'm never even tempted to try it.

I know how bothersome the trolleys are on a busy street sometimes. But they have to be there, and what's a second or two of time saved if you've got to "take a chance" in doing it? It doesn't pay—in the long run.

Y. W. C. A. SECY TELLS OF CAMP

A Young Women's Christian Association Camp is an entirely new thing in this community and there are a good many girls who wonder whether or no they would like to spend their vacation at such a camp, as near home as Ideal Park, near Mount Tremper. Miss Lillian D. Herdman, the assistant secretary at the local Y. W. C. A., and who recently attended one of the big Y. W. C. A. camps, went up to Ideal Park herself last Sunday to see just what it was like, and how well it seemed likely to compare proportionately with the Y. W. C. A. camp she had attended. Here is what Miss Herdman has to say about the camp that the Kingston Y. W. C. A. will have at Ideal Park during August 20th and September 1st.

Did you ever have enough of the great out-of-door? I am sure you never have, so I am going to tell you just how you can get it. Sunday I visited the Girl Scout camp at Ideal Park, which is to be run as a Y. W. C. A. camp from August 20 to September 1 for all girls and women over 16 years of age whether members of the Y. W. C. A. or not. The camp is in a beautiful spot. The main building is a frame house containing the kitchen, a combined reading and the sleeping quarters of the camp. In front of the main building the camp fire is lighted each night and at one side are the baseball and basketball courts. Everything all right so far, you will say but what about the swimming? Ah, that too is well taken care of at this ideal camp. The "old swimming hole" is about five minutes walk from the camp; it has a spring board, a shoot-the-chute and a flat bottomed boat. There is absolutely no danger of drowning and lots of shallow places for those who are not expert. If you are not interested in baseball, volley ball, basketball or swimming, how about tennis? There is a double tennis court and at the Y camp Miss Paasmore, the Y. W. C. A. physical director will be glad to teach those who know nothing about this fascinating game.

Last but not least, girls, the "cats." For Sunday we had chicken, not the wish bone to polish up, but all you could eat, mashed potatoes, green beans and corn, bread and butter (they only dispose of 100 loaves a week!) nice rich milk to drink and ice cream. They certainly do not starve at camp. You all realize how important it is that the food be well cooked and I can assure you that Miss Van Keuren is one grand cook and seems to enjoy seeing her well cooked meals disappear.

Can you resist this opportunity for tennis, hiking, all sorts of sports, the evenings with the camp fires and the camp fire singing and the ukuleles, the sleeping and eating out of doors and above all the spirit of fellowship and comradeship which is the very essence of camp life. Get out your camp clothes and your racquets and your ukuleles and I assure you that at the end of camp you will come back to your various jobs with pep and enthusiasm and a new interest in life.

AT THE THEATRES

At Keene's Theatre tonight only is the Fox production, "The Village Blacksmith," founded on Longfellow's famous poem. The New York World says: "The picture is sure to carry you back to your childhood days," while the New York Journal of Commerce calls it a melodrama, combining all the heart throbs of "East Lynne," "The Old Homestead" and "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

"The Face in the Fog," a Paramount picture in which Lionel Barrymore and Seena Owens have the featured roles, is the offering at the Auditorium today. The story deals with the efforts of a band of Russian crooks to rob a refugee of the crown jewels and how they are foiled by Boston Blackie Dawson, a reformed American crook.

LOCAL BATTERIES SHOWED THE WAY

In Efficiency at Camp East—Regular Army Officer Now Inspector in This District—Got Papers Quickly.

Now that Batteries E and I, of the 132nd Ammunition Train, have been home from camp for a few days it develops that they carried off the honors for efficiency in camp duty, sanitation, drill, general condition of men and equipment. The batteries also won first honors at target practice.

There was only one disappointing feature about the whole trip and that was that the men did not get an opportunity to see Washington by daylight as they had expected to on Saturday of last week. However, they did arrive at the capital at 10 o'clock Saturday night, which at least gave them an opportunity to see some of the interesting places by artificial light.

May Be a Change Soon.

It has been learned by the officers of the local companies that Captain Needham, U. S. A., has been assigned to permanent duty with the 132nd, with headquarters in Middletown. It will be his duty to travel through the district, instruct the men and inspect their work. It is understood that this assignment of a regular army officer to the local military organization is but the initial step toward the anticipated change, which will ultimately bring them into a regiment of Field Artillery.

What This Change Will Do.

When this transformation takes place it will mean each of the companies will have a minimum membership of 75 men, and each will be supplied with horses, necessitating the appointment of a caretaker and the purchase of land for a regimental farm on which to place the horses during the period when there are no actual duties to perform. There are similar farms in connection with the Bronx regiment and another in Binghamton.

Received Freeman Every Day.

The men received The Kingston Daily Freeman every day. If it was mailed from this city on Monday afternoon, at 5 o'clock they would receive the paper on Tuesday about noon. The distance is about 800 miles and as the same deliveries were made day after day, the men consider that this excellent service should be mentioned.

DANGER IN CHEWING GRASS

Habit is a Bad One, and May Result in Contraction of Unpleasant Disease.

Many people have been startled recently by the announcement that it is dangerous to chew grass.

A well-known athlete has been undergoing medical treatment for several months, and he had two operations on a mysterious swelling in a giant.

The disease is called actinomycosis, and is usually found in cattle, pigs, horses, and even elephants and dogs. In the case mentioned it was contracted through the habit of chewing grass while playing games, a common practice among sportsmen. In chewing grass one may consume a parasite, and there lies the danger.

Formerly this unpleasant disease was known as "wooden tongue" or "big jaw," owing to the large swellings which develop on the tongue, jaw or skin.

Actinomycosis is a chronic inflammatory disease producing pus, and is caused by a fungus, which in the case of a man attacks the jaw and neck, entering through diseased teeth or tonsils. A severe local infection is set up, which burrows its way into the tissues, distorting what it traverses and stopping at nothing unless treated in time. Bones are penetrated as easily as muscles.

Job's Comforter.

"I know, my dear," said the old aunt, "that it is hard for you to be so lonely and not to be invited by the boys to go on these joy rides and road-house parties, but at least you have the satisfaction of knowing you are entertaining a clear conscience."

"Yes, no doubt," sighed her lonely niece, "but a good-looking fellow could entertain me a lot more satisfactorily."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

American Rice.

During the past two decades the development of rice culture into one of the leading industries of our Gulf states has established the fact that American rice is of a very high grade. Proof is furnished from Cuba, where rice is eaten at every meal, and where the American product has already won the reputation of being superior in richness of flavor and in nutritive quality to the rice of India, China or Japan.

QUALITY WITH ECONOMY

Before Pocono Products were placed on the market, foods of such quality were obtainable only in the most exclusive stores, at fancy prices.

The manufacturers of Pocono Products are constantly striving to see how good they can make their products without thought of price. But, when the prices are announced they are found to be the lowest for quality foods.

Pocono Products are known as "the world's finest foods." Globe Grocery Stores are known as "America's finest economy stores." It was natural that these two great forces should combine to give thrifty shoppers quality products at economy prices.

Many shoppers know the advantage of trading at Globe Stores and many know the remarkable values in Pocono Products. To those who do not, this is an announcement that each week a certain Pocono item will be offered FOR THAT WEEK ONLY at a special price. Watch this space.

Novelist's Puzzling Signature.

Amelle Rivers, the novelist, once sent her signature to 14 different editors on a wager that all could read it. The nearest that any one made it out was "American Rivers."

Swim Not, Drown Not.

The Antiseptic Orange.
The discovery of the antiseptic value of the orange was made soon after its introduction into England. For Cavenish says Cardinal Wolsey was wont to carry "a fair orange, filled with a sponge of vinegar against pestilence."

BIBLE SOCIETY ASKS FOR BOOKS

The Ulster County Bible Society again makes its annual request for literature for free distribution. It has been the custom of the society for several years to distribute not only Bibles and portions of the Bible, but also millions of pages of such literature as magazines, church publications and Sunday school papers. Most all Sunday schools have more or less such matter left over after supplying their own needs, and many families have magazines which have passed their usefulness, but would be much appreciated by those who are not receiving such matter. Missionary territory is growing in Ulster county, and there is need of Bibles, portions of the Bible, good books, magazines, papers, etc. We appeal especially to churches and Sunday schools, as well as to all the good people in Ulster to aid us in supplying present needs. We can use to good advantage all that may come. If you have any such matter as above mentioned, and will kindly address it to the Ulster County Bible Society, Central Y. M. C. A., Kingston, N. Y., it will be thankfully received, and the credit will be given in our annual report. Our free distribution of books and other literature begins November 1st, each year. Will you please send whatever you may have at an early date, in order that it may be classified and tabulated before that date.

LOWER ANIMALS AT BIRTH

Seem to the Observer to Be Strange Little Objects—Baby Giraffe Not Long Helpless.

Recently one of the tortoises at a large city zoo laid 42 eggs and hatched out the first tortoise to be born in the "Zoo." At birth he was two inches long and weighed a little over an ounce. His mother was fifty years old when he was hatched out.

Young animals are always very strange little things when first seen. The porcupine is born with its spines, but they are quite soft and pliable. They soon harden when exposed to the air. The puma is born spotted, and has rings on his tail. At six months old his coat becomes tawny in color and his tail loses all its rings.

The tapir is born with curious markings of spots and streaks on his coat. But when he is four months old these all disappear.

Some of the young animals have a pretty good time. The woolly opossum of South America gives her youngster any amount of joy rides, and she will climb trees quite nimbly with as many as twelve of her children clinging tenaciously to her. The young black-necked swan from the same country often gets a ride in his mother's mouth.

The giraffe is one of the nimblest animals, even when very tiny. He dashes any carrying on his mother's part, and when he is only three days old will trot gaily along by his mother's side.

BEARDS ONCE HIGHLY PRIZED

To Be Without One Was Considered Sign of Effeminacy in Civilization's Early Stages.

Back in the early stages of civilization the clean-shaven man of today, instead of giving the impression of power and strength, would have been looked upon as a very effeminate person, an outcast in worth-while society.

All nations in their early development cherished the beard as something almost sacred, a sign of strength and manhood. To lose the beard through an accident or as punishment was as degrading a thing as could befall a man. Tradition has connected wisdom with a long beard; artists have embodied it in their pictures. Most of the Biblical characters, even the first person of the Trinity, is given a beard by old painters and carvers.

The oath of the beard is as old as history. It is found in the first English political ballad when Sir Simon De Montfort swears "by the hair on his chin."

Large Supply Needed.

Eph Brown was a true believer and fond of any religious ceremony. When "de sunction" caught him, he became a sort of unofficial chaplain in a colored labor battalion. He worked as ardently among his fellows, and finally persuaded a dozen or so to join him in an open-air baptizing on a day in January.

That it was necessary to chop a hole in the river ice to provide a space for immersion rather cooled the ardor of the converts, but not so Eph's. Seizing the nearest soldier, he plunged him beneath the icy water. He had not reckoned the swift current, however, and the luckless victim was snatched out of his hands and carried permanently out of sight.

Eph was not in the least disconcerted.

"De Lawd giveth," he intoned, "an' de Lawd taketh away. Bring me another privit."—American Legion Weekly.

STARTLING HOME RUN CLOUT WINS

Blink Biven's Circuit Hit Wins. Not Only Came for Gallupers, but Provides Team Mates With a Mess of Fish—Could Only Happen in Mountain League.

"When they were distributing brains, all that feller got was a rain check," remarked Raiser Turk as he glanced in the direction of "Hippy" Wicken, the new outfielder of the Busters, just signed up by Captain Twin Gormley, who was strengthening his team in an effort to wipe the earth with his deadly rival, Captain Ralph Roadboy, and his fast traveling Gallapurs, champions of the Mountain League.

At the time Raiser passed the remark he and Blink Biven were "enjoying" themselves at an outing that had been arranged by some of the leading baseball fans of the mountains in honor of the two teams who were to clash on the following day.

Raiser was peeved because "Hippy" had cut in on him when he was dancing with a young lady whose affections Raiser valued highly. If Hippy was lacking in brains it did not affect his standing in Cupid's League for since joining the Busters he had found it impossible to keep the dames from flocking around him. He was as popular with the ladies as an ice cream soda on a hot summer day.

"Never mind," said Blink Biven, with a grin, "you will have a chance to show him up on the diamond tomorrow, for I understand that he not only plays the outfield but has some reputation as twirler, and the chances are that Twin will give him a chance in the box against us in the big game."

"Well," retorted Raiser sourly "all I hope is that I can knock his block off with a clean hit that he won't stand a chance to dodge. Come on, let's get out of here and I'll shoot you a game of pool."

"That suits me," agreed Blink, who was no ladies' man, and who found himself in deep waters when it came to carrying on a conversation with a skirt.

Unfortunately for Raiser Turk, however, he did not have the opportunity of showing up his hated rival the next day, as that morning he received a hurry call to return home.

"Hippy" Wicken, much to the disgust of the Gallapurs, proved to be all that the advance notices had stated for lining after inning slipped by without a Gallur being able to obtain a safe hit. On the other hand Blink Biven, who was handing them out for the champions was also unhittable. Blink, as all followers of the Mountain League know, was a two curve pitcher.

With the absence of Raiser Captain Roadboy had been obliged to shift his lineup. "Honest" Bill Hickson, catcher of the champions, had been shifted to outfield, as with Blink pitching no catcher was needed as he threw such a wide out curve that it broke back of the plate and sailed into the hands of the first baseman. Blink's in curve on the other hand broke and curved into the hands of the third sacker. In this way the first and third sackers also served as catchers.

In the opening of the ninth frame the Busters were retired quickly by Blink. Then in came the Gallapurs. Blink stepped up to the plate determined to wipe the grin from the face of Hippy Wicken and by good luck caught the first ball pitched on the end of his stick.

There was a terrific crash as bat and ball met, and the ball like a streak of light sailed on and on until it disappeared in the lake four hundred and sixty-two feet distant, and Blink trotted contentedly around the bases with the winning run.

To add to the gaiety of the occasion the ball struck a row boat in the lake with such force that it sunk to the bottom but came to the surface a minute later undamaged but with a boat load of squirming fishes and all of them big ones, averaging from three to four pounds apiece.

That night the Gallapurs enjoyed an old time fish dinner, and being in a generous mood sent the Busters a generous mess of Blink's unexpected catch.

Plant a Tree.

Every year we cut in the United States wood enough to measure 26,000,000,000 cubic feet of lumber. Each year we cut over 10,000,000 acres of land. At that rate the last of our merchantable lumber will have been exhausted in between 30 and 40 years. Even now we are approaching the forest bankruptcy. We all know the disasters that follow in the path of such a state of affairs. Trees do not mature in a day. The fact that a timber crop is so long in getting here discourages many from doing their share in the work of reforestation. If the land owner will look but a short distance ahead, he will learn that in planting trees he can turn much waste land into a source of profit and at the same time he will be performing a duty to this country and the human race.—Exchange.

First American-Made Steel.

The first steel produced in the United States, according to the geological survey, Department of the Interior, was probably made in Connecticut in 1728, by Samuel Hilsley and Joseph Dewey. Crucible steel was first successfully produced in the United States in 1832 at the works of William and John H. Garrard at Cincinnati. Bessemer steel was first made in this country in September, 1854, by William F. Durfee, at an experimental plant at Wyandotte, Mich., and open-hearth steel in 1864 by the New Jersey Steel and Iron company, at Trenton.

Witty Play on Words.

He was introducing the dark-haired speaker to the mass meeting. With a twinkle in his eye, he said: "When we were at college together our speaker of this evening was known as 'the crow.' I have much pleasure now in inviting you to listen to his cause."

The VILLAGE BLACKSMITH

Founded on LONGFELLOW'S famous poem

Directed by JACK FORD

Life's Drama Through the Eyes of a Great Poet.

Longfellow's poem in this production is told in an honest motion picture. It is an honest story, produced honestly with a big human interest background of real characters who unfold a bit of fun, a good deal of life and a big touch of drama. It is clean, and scintillates with happiness and sunshine, as well as big dramatic moments that will thrill.

Normal School Students Participate In Health Demonstrations In Order To Insure Health Of Their Pupils

Activities of the Mansfield Child Health Demonstration, an experiment in health education, are almost continually arriving in Mansfield to observe the demonstration's work and profit thereby. Among the more recent of these official observers were five students from Western Reserve University, who were sent to Mansfield by their institution for a two-weeks' course in child health. The County Normal training class does even more than this. The entire class of young women future school teachers, are being instructed by the demonstration in teaching child health subjects to their pupils. They study their work under the direction of Miss Elma Rood, director of health education for the demonstration. These normal students attended school in every sense of the word while they were here. They played the games as children play them, with Miss Rood as their instructor and were weighed and examined just as the boys and girls of Mansfield are. Entering into the spirit of the "Health Game," they acquired training that will prove of great value to them when they take up their duties as teachers.

LIFE'S GREAT DAY

To East Indian Girl, Marriage Means Emancipation.

Prospective Bride's Outlook Changes Almost From Moment of Betrothal — Wedding "Ring" on Wrist.

From the moment of her betrothal the Indian girl's experiences gradually change, and from the day of her marriage there grows about her an atmosphere of calmness and reserve. Even her appearance undergoes a change. Her hair is parted, no longer childishly brushed back, and at the parting there is a touch of vermillion. Her head is now always covered with a veil. On the bridal evening the bride is brought before her young husband, and they are told that the moment is auspicious for their first look at each other. It is the parents of the bride and the bridegroom who arrange the preliminaries of marriage, and husband and wife see each other for the first time only when the ceremony is performed. The old Vedic fire is used to celebrate the rites of the union. This is a custom that had its origin in the sacred Vedas, the books compiled by Manu whose name is revered throughout the length and breadth of India. The girl flings a garland of flowers about the neck of her bridegroom in exquisite symbolism of the bond that is to hold them; and finally they take seven steps together hand in hand, while the priest chants appropriate texts for each stage of life. Such is the wedding writes "An Indian Prince" in Current History.

The young wife's feet are unshod and the gold wedding bracelet on the left wrist supplies the only hint of girlish vanity. But she has other jewels. These that she wears daily are of pure gold more or less richly worked but on her wedding night she wears the silken or triple coronal, set with pearls. Arms and neck are gay with flashing stones. All these are her dowry given by her father to be her personal property. Not even her husband can touch them without her consent though he will add to them occasionally at festive moments. These more elaborate ornaments however are worn only on great occasions but meanwhile the silver anklets, the golden necker and a few bangles are enough for daily use. The wife knows her right to her own ornaments quite well yet often in Indian wife will voluntarily give up the whole of this little treasure in order that her husband may weather some financial crisis and in Indian mother will make the same sacrifice in order to give her son an education. The one thing from which the wife will never part however, is the sacred thread which hangs over her left shoulder and is fastened on the left wrist with a knot of the red of the Indian goddess. This is her marriage—her wedding, that is for.

Rockets Aid Bridge Building.
The 125,000-ton bridge in England is 1,100 feet long and 11 feet wide and more than 200 feet above the River Avon. It is said that the cable was put in place by the aid of a kite. First a string was sent over by a kite, then a heavier cord was pulled across, then a heavier and heavier and finally the cable.

A more unusual way was adopted for strutting the great bridge across the Zambesi river in South Africa. The bridge is the highest in the world, 400 feet above the water, and runs from cliff to cliff. A rocket to which a string was attached was used at the beginning of construction. The rocket took the cord across the river and the wire was used to pull over a small cable. On this a truck crossed, carrying the main cable of the bridge, which is 200 feet long and the greatest engineering wonder in South Africa.

Bare Walls Spoil Radio Transmission.
Bare walls are not the best thing in the world for the radiophone broadcasting studio says the Scientific American. Recently one of the leading studios moved into a large, beautifully decorated room with paneled walls and smooth unbroken ceiling. Previous to that time the studio held forth in what had been the cloakroom of a factory office, where the bare walls had to be hidden with draperies and rugs while the ceiling was broken up by beams.

However the results obtained with the old studio room were excellent, for the reason that there was practically no echo or sound reflection from the walls and ceiling. The new studio room will have to be provided with tapestries or some other form of sound absorbing hangings in order to reduce echo.

The Callisthenics of Relativity.
Professor Einstein was recently expounding his theory of relativity to an audience on the left bank of the Rhine, and as the majority of his hearers were women he deemed it necessary to use the simplest of illustrations. He declared that the system of co-ordinates finds its most perfect realization "in the act of a man who is taking off his waistcoat without removing his coat."

This simple manner of illustrating such an abstract theory was keenly appreciated and at night at home the few gentlemen who had attended the 6 o'clock lecture, to realize relativity, tried to take off their waistcoats without removing their coats.

It is not told how they succeeded!

TRUCK LEAPS OFF WALDEN BRIDGE

Hits Factory, 38 Feet Away, and Drops Into 40-foot Ravine. Yet Driver Is Unhurt—Was Making Time for Pennsylvania With Load of Beer Kegs.

Crashing through the guard rails of the High Bridge across the Wallkill in Walden Tuesday morning, an automobile truck owned by Leo Mazzulla of Middle Hope and driven by Louis Rochetti of Newburgh, leaped through the air a distance of 38 feet, struck the factory of the Schrade Knife works and then dropped to the ravine 40 feet below. The truck was so wrecked as to be almost unrecognizable but the man sustained only minor injuries.

The accident was remarkable. Rochetti was not even stunned and immediately after being taken out from under the wreck of the machine he was able to tell what had happened.

The driver said that he was on his way from Middle Hope to eastern Pennsylvania with a load of 25 empty beer kegs and 25 cases of bottles. The accident took place about eight o'clock Tuesday morning. Rochetti was driving from Newburgh and approached the bridge from the eastern side. The approach is on a grade over a concrete pavement. Due to the rain which was falling the road was greasy and very slippery and Rochetti was making time. At the entrance to the bridge is a slight curve and as he rounded this, the truck skidded and crashed into the guard rail, which is of steel, and carried away 40 feet of it.

Nearby is the knife factory, the four-story windows of which are on the level of the bridge floor, the foundations of the building being in the ravine. From the bridge to the factory is 38 measured feet and from the bridge level to the bottom of the ravine is 40 feet. The truck jumped the chasm of 38 feet, struck the factory building about a story and a half from the ground and then dropped to the bottom of the ravine with a crash that was heard for blocks.

Traffic over the bridge was suspended for a number of hours until temporary repairs had been made to the guard rail. After the accident the discovery was made that in some manner the bridge had become charged with electricity.

The extent of Rochetti's injuries was a few cuts and a slightly sprained back.

Virgil Fitch, prosecuting attorney of Mason county, Michigan.

Virgil Fitch, prosecuting attorney of Mason county, Michigan, has a way of getting back at Puritanically-minded women of his county who insisted that dance halls should be closed on Sunday. Mr. Fitch promptly began a study of every blue law on the statute books of Michigan and began applying them with a vengeance in Ludington, the county seat, and rest of the county. "What's fair for one is fair for all," he asserts. The first person he was called upon to prosecute was his own son, charged with dancing on Sunday.

EVER THINK ABOUT NOTHING?

Courteline, Eminent French Philosopher, May Have Added Another Word to Language.

Courteline, the French philosopher, bids fair to add a new word to language, as did Osier and Fletcher. Perhaps we shall overhear the expression "to do a Courteline" applied to the attempt to think without a subject. A new edition of the "Philosophy of Courteline" has recently been issued, and the reviewer in Le Progres Medical assures the reader that in place of a system of metaphysics the book consists of a string of thoughts, maxims and reflections on the most diverse themes.

Courteline, or some one else, had heard a woman say that "she never thought, because thinking fatigued her; but if she did think she tried to think of nothing. This declaration he regards as great to the point of sublimity—the best thing that has been said since a certain gentleman went on record as "no lover of spinach." Such remarks are worth more than many acts of parliament.

Instead of giving rules about how to think of nothing, Courteline seems to think along absurd lines and thus reduce thought to absurdity. Thus he states that it is better to drink too much good wine than even a little poor wine, and that it is better to court two pretty girls at the same time than one aged spinster alone. He says of the doctors that they can frighten him, but never convince him; that when they tell him he has this or that trouble he has no difficulty in believing them, but when they tell him they can cure him he no longer takes their word. He would rather consult a small-fry doctor than a leading light of the profession, because the former, having no theories, is much less to be feared. The brainy doctor thinks more of justifying his theory than of curing the patient.

"Thinking about nothing," inconceivable in itself, becomes intelligible if we look upon it as thinking nonsensically to stumble now and then on a sensible conclusion.

Old Belief Proved Wrong.

The London Times recently carried a news dispatch which indicates that a pet theory of the late Sir Norman Lockyer has just received a blow from which it can hardly recover. Accurate measurements made by the Egyptian survey have proved that never since the great temple of Karnak was built has the sun shone straight down its axis. Sir Norman Lockyer believed that this temple, and many others in addition, were constructed for the purpose of obtaining an exact observation of the precise time of the solstices—that is to say, the day of the sun's most northerly setting. But Mr. Richards, of the survey of Egypt, has proved that the sun has never been visible at all, at any moment in any day in any year along the axis of the temple, since about 6,000 B. C., and that it last set along the central line of this axis between 12,000 and 13,000 years ago. At this date Europe was still in the old Stone age; the cave period was at its zenith, and the hunters of the Dordogne were chasing reindeer over the French tundras. To suppose that the temple of Karnak can have been built then is out of the question. This would appear to dispose of the sun-temple hypothesis; and the survey of Egypt is to be congratulated upon a useful piece of work.

Love and Green Peas.

Leguminous plants and divorce appear to have little in common, but, according to the Daily Chronicle, London, England, the Pathological congress, recently held in Paris, discovered the analogy when considering divorce cases resulting from war-time marriages.

Haricot beans were stated to confer advantage upon brain and brawn; spinach would prevent dawdling in the household, but green peas were condemned as developing frivolity, making women capricious and reckless. Men and women, it was asserted, flirted under their influence, and the pathologists attributed a majority of the divorce cases to the consumption of peas.

Miss Jane Remington, beautiful amateur actress of Morris, Ill.

Miss Jane Remington, beautiful amateur actress of Morris, Ill., complained to the police there that Blaine Beach, a wealthy Joliet merchant, with whom she had been friendly, but from whom she had become estranged, was annoying her with his attentions. When he appeared near her home at night recently a deputy sheriff was sent to investigate. The officer thought Beach reached for a revolver and shot him to death.

EDUCATORS PUSH PLANS FOR TEACHING THRIFT IN SCHOOLS

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

It was Burke who gave expression to the solid doctrine that "education is the chief defense of nations." Nothing can be added to make more clear or more emphatic the profound truth expressed in these seven words.

But education, like all things else that are good, is passing through a constant process of improvement and it is noted with interest that practical plans have recently been worked out for teaching thrift in the schools.

The Committee on Thrift Education of the National Education Association has just issued a small leaflet outlining a preliminary course of thrift study that should be in the hands of every educator throughout the length and breadth of our country. It is not possible, in the scope of this article, to give an adequate outline of the educational methods and objectives which the committee and associate educators have worked out for the benefit of the school children of today and the future, but the following is an epitome of the aims sought:

1—To give the child an appreciation of the principles of underlying thrift.

2—To make him familiar with the specific facts relative to thrift.

3—To develop habits of conservation and intelligent use of all his resources.

4—To create through the schools a public sentiment in favor of thrift and economy.

If the educational foundation of the boys and girls of this country can be successfully shaped along these lines as the result of the thrift committee's efforts, it is not going too far to say that a new epoch in education has been entered.

With thrift in the public schools of our nation the seven forceful words of Burke take on added significance.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

IN THE BIG LEAGUES

Cross (X) marks the spot where the body was found. The Reds fell into third place with a double header to the Phils, 2 to 1 and 5 to 1.

The Tigers continued their merry massacre of Senatorial pitchers, by assaulting two of them for nineteen hits and a 13 to 5 victory, six runs being scored in the ninth. Blue made five hits.

Although wobbling a bit toward the finish, the Giants managed to last to the wire and beat the Pirates, 5 to 4, increasing their lead in the pennant race to four games.

The Braves again surprised themselves by getting sixteen hits for a total of twenty-five bases and another decision over the Cubs, 6 to 2.

Tying the score in the ninth at the expense of Clinke, the Indians came through in the eleventh and beat the Red Sox 5 to 1. Mutt's single furnishing the needed run.

The Dodgers and Cards broke even, the latter winning the opener, 11 to 7, by overwhelming Games and losing the record, 7 to 1, by failing to do likewise by Dickman.

COFFEY, BURT, PUTS OFF TRIP TO COAST

Wm. Coffey, local welterweight, has been compelled to postpone a trip to the Pacific Coast as the result of a taxicab accident in New York city in which his left shoulder was wrenched. He was injured while returning from the Cragin-Dundee fight Thursday night and has come to his home in this city to rest a couple of weeks before starting for the coast.

Coffey's manager, Jimmy Betts, is now in Los Angeles with Jimmy O'Hazen, Albany middleweight. He has arranged four bouts in the West for the two fighters this month.
